Marc Van Raemdonck obtained a law degree from the University of Antwerp in 1979. He then further qualified in tax and accountancy law. In addition, he followed several training courses in the field of building law and regularly gave seminars on building law. Marc Van Raemdonck was admitted to the Antwerp bar in 1980. He went on to establish VARLAW, which has since merged with Caluwaerts Uytterhoeven.

As a lawyer he mainly specialises in building law, company law and insolvency law. He focuses on the various disciplines in the building industry, both public and private, as well as on commercial real estate transactions, M&A and distribution law (franchise). He is often asked, both at the national and international level, to give a second opinion on transactions, assisting the management and legal department of companies.

In 1997, he was added to the list of curators of the Commercial Tribunal in Antwerp.

In October 2020, he joined Caluwaerts Uytterhoeven as Lawyer Of Counsel.
